Since our arrival at St. Andrew’s, you have been a present, supportive and encouraging figure in each of our lives. Whether in the classroom, on the cross country trails, on dorm, on the pond, or in “minimum security prison,” you have made the hardest four years of our lives easier. Freshman year, you opened the door to St. Andrew’s and because of your presence we have become the seniors we are today. You have entertained us with your humor during classroom banter, taught us crewbies to slice through the water like a hot knife through butter, and kept us in line by “making it rain marks.” You have played a truly indispensable part in our time here and have made it that much more memorable. We are dedicating this yearbook to you, Mr. Everhart, because of the crucial role you’ve played in our transformation from confused, awkward freshman into thoughtful, confident seniors. We love you!
Echo Hill: A great time for team building—and getting muddy!
The Square Dance
A fun get-together for everyone, where the sillier you dress and the louder you yell, the better. The square dance provides students with an opportunity early in the year to come together and meet the new members of the community.

At the beginning, inevitably for the first few minutes, everybody, except for the senior guys (who look forward to dressing as strangely and with the least amount of clothes as possible), feels extremely awkward and out of place. However, when the lady from New York City, who has managed to procure a pretty convincing southern accent, begins to “YEEE-HAAAA,” everyone joins in and it becomes a good-ol-fashioned-southern-style-shin-diggin-throwdown-barn-raisin’ good time.
For the past 23 years, St. Andrew’s School has kicked off its year with the annual Frosty Run. St. Andrew’s students flood into each grade’s respective Wendy’s establishment and demanded, well politely waited for, frosties. The theme this year was “Election,” inspired by the 2012 presidential election. Wearing our shirts that proudly announced “Vote Frosty,” it was finally time to get us some frosties. While we sipped, chugged, and slurped frosties and waited in the long line for more food, we passed the time talking to our friends about our summers and the chaos of the first few weeks of school. We gossiped, played silly games, and sat around talking to the new members of our grade, getting them used to this quirky tradition. Even though it only lasts a few hours each year, the Frosty Run is a St. Andrew’s tradition that demonstrates the creativity of the student body and our acceptance of some crazy customs; it is something that only St. Andreans can proudly claim as their own.

Who Said It?

Try to match the statement to the teacher who said it!

WARNING: No context provided

1. "Just for shiggles"

2. "When I was in college at frat parties, I would drink wine straight from the bottle...It was just to be eccentric."

3. "I want to see those oars slicing through the water like the watermelon slicing through my lower intestine right now... I probably shouldn't have said that."

4. "Andy, are you licking the table? Illness abounds!"

5. "Mr. Kahan showed me so many places I'd never even thought of." (Okay, we'll provide context on this one: Booty Duty)

6. "You know it's rude to eat candy in my class. Unless, of course, you give me some."

7. "It's kind of hard to suffocate a child with your face."

8. "You all laughed. You're losers!"

9. "Why do whales talk like that? Don't they want to be understood?"

10. "If I had a penny for every time you put in your two cents, I'd be rich."

11. "The next time I'll see you guys is in 2013! Oh, right the world is gonna end. I guess I'll see you in hell. That's where I assume I'm going."

12. "Shut up! No really, shut up!"

This year's GXC team was quite possibly the biggest this school has ever seen. With so many amazing new freshman as well as fantastic new and returning upper formers, the team was never lacking in energy. The season kicked off with a race very early on, and for many this was their first 5k. But when the Saints approached the line, this was in no way evident. Clad in red and black, we were ready to run. The season progressed and the girls attacked the courses and practices with a force difficult to be reckoned with. It has truly been an honor running, laughing, and spending countless long van rides with one another this season. It is because of the passion you all brought to the team that truly brought us together, and you should all be so proud of what you were able to accomplish. Thank you for an amazing season, and a special shout out to Baby Christian for putting up with Ballerina Leaps and Run-and-Cuts.

Saints - This has been an amazing season! Our improvement from last year has been incredible, and we are so proud of all of you. Coming together as a team and learning to work well together has been so much fun. Not only have we played great hockey, but we've enjoyed every second of it. We'll miss you guys next fall... keep the momentum going! Get pumped for next season.

FIELD HOCKEY
GIRLS' SOCCER
Comprised of five seniors, three juniors, four sophomores and six freshman, our team was crazy this year. Aly, you were a backbone for the team, always seeming calm and collected while putting the responsibility on yourself. Eliza, as a first time or any time goalie, you rocked! You impressed and inspired all of us. Liz, you were a solid and passionate teammate this year! We were always impressed by your ability to make smart decisions. Morgan, whether you were galloping down the field or putting you heart on the field, we could always tell when you were working hard. Lucy, your consistency was impressive and we loved watching you play! Louisa, gosh, you're fast. Sprinting next to you was both exciting and frustrating because you always won. Keep keeping your feet down on throw ins and you'll be unstoppable! Melina, way to go girl! You move the ball around players like we all wish we could, jumping over feet and lightly tapping the ball to exactly where you want it. Kirstin, your zeal and energy are contagious. We'll miss that smile and passion next year! Millie, you sure have a foot...no two! You kick that ball further and with more purpose than most people! Ally, we are so happy you were on the team this year. You worked so hard and it paid off! Neely, nobody knows how you stop those players, but somehow you always seemed to stick your foot out and do it. We were always so impressed by this crazy skill! Grace, wow, you're a solid player...not in the, she's solid and not moving, but solid and always is there to catch your back! Katie, we are so happy you got that goal, you deserved it. You worked so hard both in practice and in games and appreciated your positive energy on the team. So thank you all for an incredible season! Whether we were doing sprints and watching the Women's US team over the summer, scrimmaging on Wednesdays, dressing up on Yay day like never before because we couldn't during the season, saving a dog, making up songs on the bus, or playing in different positions, we did it for each other. We love you all and can't wait to see you play next year!

Ladies,

We have loved being a part of this family for the past 4 years and will miss you bunches next year. Although we may have had our ups and downs, our positive attitudes carried us through the season. JV and 3rds—You’ve had an awesome season this year and we can’t wait to see what you bring to the court next year. To Varsity, even though our record doesn’t show it, we played some great volleyball this year. You’ve each grew as individual players and made our team that much stronger because of it. We are so proud of you and couldn’t have asked for better teammates. Keep bringing the urgency and energy next year!

Love always,
Em Tro, Mads, and Bre

Dear Girls,

This has been a great season. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to lead the team. I couldn't have done it without you guys. We have come such a long way as a team, and we have continued to improve each day. We have surpassed our goals and we have broken records, all while staying calm and running Iowa. Each one of you have a special something that you bring to the team. Olivia, you have brought so much to our team, from your rebounding to your post moves. I will never forget the fist pump and scream you do everytime you get an And-1. Jordan, you have become more physical and a powerhouse on the block this season. Morgan, you have mastered driving to the basket. Liz, this season has been great for you. You have really developed to be a confident shooter. Mollie, the grit and hard work that you bring everyday is amazing. Janee, never stop shooting and never lose your passion. Charlotte, keep driving to the basket because no one can stop you. Aly, we missed you this season, but I know you will come back full force. Erika, you came to our team at the perfect time. Your ball handling and basketball IQ has helped so much. Betsy, the energy and work ethic you have is great. Faith, you constantly hustle and bring a high level of intensity to the team. Morgen and Ellen, thanks for being the best managers ever! Henry, thanks for practicing with us almost everyday and pushing us to get better. Coach Costa, thanks for helping us grow as players and students. Last but not least, Coach Hamilton, thanks for your passion and faith in us. I love you all and hope you guys have a great season next year. JV, you guys had a great season. You worked hard and always showed up on game day. Get excited for next year!

Love Your Captain,

Bre

The boys' captains could not be more proud of our team. With a total of eleven mighty swimmers, we clawed for our illustrious title as conference champions, a title that has been in our family for eons. The enthusiasm that each SAS swimmer has shown this year has shattered our expectations. Our new crop of freshmen has brought an unexpected persistence and edge to the season. The courage they displayed during the DISC meet while facing fierce and tried competition left and right has made Mama Mihalceik and Daddy Witchard confident that our team will be left in capable and manly hands. Thanks guys, all of you, whether you are a crusty old veteran or a green freshman, for making this year incredible.

Thanks to everyone on the team for making this season our most exciting one yet. Even when faced with seemingly impossible challenges, we continued to fight and WIN. Both the guys' and girls' teams finished the season undefeated in the conference and at the DISC meet, we showed our depth and skill, taking 1st and 2nd for the guys and girls respectively. We are so proud of everybody for the hard work and determination that y'all showed each and every day in the pool. We love you ALL and could not have asked for anything more! Love, your captains :)
Girls, thanks for everything this season. This team made putting in the hours and hours of intense training, working every wall, enduring Max VO2s, and feeling the pain as every muscle in our bodies screamed during a race, worth it. Each and every one of you broke daunting time barriers and showed TRUE grit and guts during each race. We made history together when we beat A.I. DuPont for the first time at the Raymond P. Generaux Aquatic Center. We exceeded expectations at DISCS by finishing second behind Tatnall and holding them off until the last leg of the 400 Free Relay—way to be! We are confident that next year you will continue to amaze us and everyone around. We love you! (YOU KNOWWW!)

A Day In The Life Of A St. Andrew's Student: Welcome to the bubble

And here, amidst cornfields and sketchy strip malls, we enter the world that contains the famous St. Andrew’s School. Never heard of it? That’s okay, neither has anyone else. It is actually the 8th best boarding school in the nation or something like that but no one really knows the exact standing because numbers and rankings aren’t important. No, those white vans aren’t for a mental hospital but rather used to transport students on their occasional foray to the outside world. It’s time for lunch- go sit at that table with a bunch of random students that hardly ever associate with each other. Here, have some chicken! Don’t ask about the implications of Team Chocolate Drop. Just smile and laugh. Oh, it’s ok, Mr. Childer’s voice always sounds like that. Let’s go to an English class. The students are either reading Shakespeare or a book about female empowerment, so I hope you’re caught up on your Zora Neal Hurston. Yeah! It’s a table… IN A CLASSROOM. Swim practice starts in 45 minutes, so it’s about time to head over to the pool. No! Stop trying to escape into the gym! SWIMMING IS FUN. You’ll be fine if you drown because mustard resuscitates everyone. If you don’t want chicken for dinner, that’s ok. There’s plenty of rice. Don’t open that closet door, or classroom door, or Arts Center door, or basically any door at night. Oh, ummmm, that’s awkward. You didn’t listen to me.

Should I read The Cardinal or The (SASsy) Pigeon? Before we return to the normal world, we have time to experience one more enigma of life at St. Andrew’s: announcements. Helen seems particularly excited about this one! I haven’t seen Alexandra make an announcement in a while. SAISL! The voice crack was funny when more than 1/4 of the school understood it. Now lets name every single student who does community service! What is Mr. Roach doing with his hands?

Many many ages ago 3 seniors were told that they were to live together on one dorm. 2 out of 3 of these seniors were mentally insane and over the 1 week before school started these 2 drove the 3rd crazy. Once the 13 freshmen who were to live on dorm with these 3 seniors arrived the seniors turned all of them mad with a series of horrifying experiments...

Class History

It is now 8:11pm in my room on Fleming the night before my senior exhibition paper is due. My brain feels like Mrs. Roach has been using it as a literary punching bag for 3 weeks but despite all that, I’ve produced a paper. A paper that I would never have written 3 years ago. In my mind, I can put the person I was right next to the person I am now and I’m not sure what happened in between. How did Zack, Charlie, and Nadiri end up being the most anticipated part of Theatre at SAS? When did Bowman and Kieran become the organizational experts that they are to create the greatest open-mic in SAS history? When did the class of 2013 start dominating varsity squash, XC, soccer, lax, tennis, and about every other sport or activity the school offers? We’ve seen three other classes stand in our position and the question I’ve most asked myself is how we will be remembered relative to these classes filled with some of the most talented and smartest students I’ve ever met. There are so many great and huge things that previous St. Andreans have done; it’s daunting to think that we have to live up to that standard. Will our class be able to set the bar even a tiny bit higher than it was before? The answer to that is that we haven’t set the bar a tiny bit higher...our class has already broken the bar!

The class of 2013 has done amazing things but not because we came to SAS amazing. A true class history would be simply a list of failures. I can think of several for me off the top of my head (Honors Geo with Mr. Tower, the Musical Theatre Club, etc.) but I am proud that we have failed this much. When people remember the class of 2013 at SAS, they will remember a class that struggled and disappointed sometimes, but then they will also remember a class that took the struggle and disappointment and molded them into something entirely new and powerful.

Maybe it’s fate that we are the Class of ’13 because we’ve run into our share of setbacks and bad luck, but we’ve also thrown something more into the mix. We aren’t just ’13... we are More Than Lucky ’13 because we’ve built on each other in dynamic and powerful ways which has led us to greater success than anyone could have thought. There is not enough luck in the world to do what we’ve done with the sheer force of our will, friendship, and love.

Next year the Class 2013 will be studying and competing at the highest levels collegiate life has to offer. If our history teaches us anything, it’s that we need to take the new and powerful thing we have here and spread the word that failure doesn’t mean the end of something. Failure only means the beginning of something new.

-Martin French ’13
Class Prophecy

In the year 2038, 25 years from now, The Fast and the Furious 14 will be topping the box office, the country of China will have colonized the moon, and Kim Kardashian’s soon-to-be best selling autobiography will have just hit bookstores everywhere. All over this crazy world, the Class of 2013, in all walks of life, continue to work, learn, and live. Some of more notable accomplishments: Paul Egan has been mistaken for the Joker and locked in Arkham Asylum, Emily Troisi, the most successful business tycoon in the world, owns 35% of the Earth’s land, and Nhana Amakiri has bought all legal rights to any song that uses his name. The most popular headlines of the week are: Trichen, king of China, finds oil on the moon; Riley McDonough’s self-help book called What McDonough Can Do for You: How to Avoid Getting Riled Up may soon be deemed as the most profitable book ever by Kim Kardashian; and Will Bowditch… the new Usher? Alums of the class of ’13 can be found everywhere in public life. President/Olympic Medalist Kelsey Barolak recalled her time at St. Andrew’s with such fondness that it has become the most attended boarding school in the world with 8 new campuses and a Mr. Robo-Roach on each campus. Some of the distinctive features of these campuses are: Jonathan Witchard’s gallery that holds the first ever photos of Atlantis (sadly in black and white), the blueprints for Liza Tarbell’s machine for harnessing the power of positive energy and turning it into electricity, and the original meeting place for Celeste Lancaster’s more intense (some might say more American) version of the Tea Party… the Coffee Party. In short, the Class of ’13 has put SAS on the map. To put it in Robo-Roach’s words, “EEE-er BLING C-A-L-C-U-L-A-T-I-N-G … Conclusion: Ethos meter is going off the charts!!!”

Thank you to my family for all of their support. Obviously I couldn’t have done it without the amazing class of 2013. Thanks to all of my teachers especially my advisor Terrell. Thank you to all my friends that have been a monumental part of life you know who you are.
Mom: Your support and love for me is always apparent. I have coming home to spend time with you. Dad: Your change is daunting, and I admire your ability to press on through apparent adversity. I have never seen you in fear of something and I love you. Jeff: You have been one of my best friends and I am so glad that our friendship only grew stronger after I left Wake. Sometimes I look at you and I have no idea what you are thinking, but sometimes it feels like we are exactly the same. Janie: I haven’t seen you in sometime as I feel this, but you are probably the friend with whom I spend the most. I remember our friendship from visiting Wake on your first grade class while you were presenting shows and talk to Alex and Brittany, in Sea Island, just chilling at your house.
See you soon. SJC: Your confidence has always been palpable and I’m glad we’ve stayed friends. Camp Winnie: Belonging to this special community overwhelms me with pride, excitement, honor, support, and love. Rex, Brutal and Alexandra: You are all of my trapped and adopted friends. I remember my first class at St. Andrews—English with Mr. Fronce— and my amazement at your effortless, articulate insights, comments, jokes, and general contributions. I am impressed to know you. Emily: Your organizational, focus, and creativity have been more invaluable to our co-presidency than I can communicate in this space. Your friendship, humor, anxiety, and personality have contributed to some of my favorite parts of my brief St. Andrews experience. Z and Rowan: You are not only apparent close friends, but incredible teachers to our class. I wanted to mention, however, that in my first hours of fear and loneliness at St.
Andrews, you guys took me on your Waka trip and were generally welcoming—a meaningful gesture I won’t soon forget. Trinity:
Your life has put me into perspective this year in the best of ways. I am proud that you are my brother and I look forward to watching your success after St. Andrews. Jack: I didn’t plan on running with you, but living with you has been a unique experience. Mason and Wilson: Don’t this year has been a real treat. I recall one of you deliberately jumping into a jump suit with a blender can pass an exam style and the other agreeing. On the whole, I have enjoyed my time with both of you and the unique, humorous dynamics that has unfolded between us this year. Carter: You’re a good friend and I look forward to our continued friendship. You’re also an epic freestlye rapper.
Paul and Ben: It’s been an interesting ride as a triplet with you two.
Thanks for the support, welcome, good humor, and style over the years. Alex McFadden: Keep trucking, bud. You’ll get better if you put the extra in. GLB: Rowing for you has given me a great sense of pride and has enabled many of my falls and self-imposed limitations.
Your pace, your kindness, and your British Olympic Sets are all treasured memories and I will miss your coaching and company. Hutch: Thank you for your generosity of time and spirit to me.
Ms. President: I will miss having access to your welcoming, warm demeanor, your intelligence, thoughtful advice and conversation, and, of course, your delightful short-term moustaches.
Took a: I don’t think you realize how many memories we were taking on when you agreed to do your advisor. But I have thoroughly enjoyed our time together so far. Please do not expect to let me down anytime soon.
DMR: After my revulsion to St. Andrews, I said to my mother that I wanted to be in your class. While I have not achieved that goal, I have cherished my time with you in your office in the dining hall, and around campus. I admire and respect your dignity and I hope you stay on as headmaster for as long as you can bear it. Fleming Dorm: It has been an amazing year working with our seniors, freshmen, and alumni. Fleming turned out an exceptional group of St. Formans this year, and I am glad to know them and to have lived with them. SAS: I cannot believe I only spent two months in this remarkable place. Thank you for everything and don’t ever change.

Class of 2013, we did it!

Chef Ray Saints Dance, The Cardinal, SAS Model UN, SAS Mock Trial, Jazz orchestra, Mr. Johnson, Mrs. Johnson, Ladies on L, Zendt Advisories, the Chinese students, and everyone in the school.
St. Andrew’s has taught me many things: How to properly annotate a book, how to function with more cups of coffee than hours of sleep (in turn teaching me how instant coffee it), and what exactly an Ethernet cable is. It has taught me to find my way in the woods (but not before letting me get lost a sufficient amount of times). It has taught me about friendship and loyalty. It has taught me that Friday morning lava cake is not worth knocking over a freshman (although I can not say the same for Monday morning muffins). I have learned how interesting and devoted teachers can be. I learned how lucky I am to be part of such a community.

Thank you St. Andrews. I appreciate every laugh, Monday morning muffin, adventure, and conversation. Thank you to everyone who has made my time here what it has been. I love you all.

I asked for riches, that I might be happy;
I was given poverty, that I might be wise.
I asked for power, that I might have the praise of men;
I was given weakness,
I asked for all things, that I might enjoy life;
I was given life, that I might enjoy all things.
I got nothing that I asked for, but everything I had hoped for.
Almost despite myself, my unspoken prayers were answered.

I am, among all, most richly blessed
To the journey, rather than the destination.

I would like to thank everyone who has been part of this journey with me, whether family, friends, or teachers. In a way, they have helped me become who I am today.

The pictures cannot do justice to all the wonderful and memorable times I have spent at SAS. I believe those who have accompanied me along the way will know who they are.

This journey does not stop here, and I hope I will have the opportunity to continue it with all of you.

Thank you.
The question is not who’s going to let me; it’s who is going to stop me.

I would have said this, but Ayn Rand beat me to it.

I don’t do the whole goodbye thing because I know I’ll see you later.

Peace.

It’s been real

The time we played games on the tennis courts.

Watching Doctor Who with the people who care about it as much as me.

Picnics in the corn fields on Valentine’s day.

Two-day long photo shoots in the woods. And then in the Bio Lab.

Upper Moss Annex - You guys are the bomb.com

Black and yellow roommate swag.

Bad dancing in the hallway after sophomore in-rooms time.

Attempted Harry Potter marathons.

Alexia - Make the most of your time here. I’ll miss you!

Watching Misfits during study hall when we should have been working.

Quoting movies, TV shows and people constantly and usually incorrectly.

Sitting in the Main Common Room and talking about nothing for hours.
You can judge the whole world on the sparkle that you think it lacks and I was waiting over here for life to begin.

They know and so do I:

the high road is hard to find

I can’t believe that we would lie in our graves wondering if we’d spent our living days well.

Love is like a sin, my love, for the ones that feel it the most and I’ve come reveling, burning incandescently.

There’s something you should know: I’m gonna go out on my own and while we are apart

I will carry the wonder that you gave to me.

I’ll wear your golden heart.

St. Andrews has meant so much to me because of the great people I have meet and befriended here. Susannah, Morgan, Kieran, Jack M, Dia, Yeojin, Kelsey, Hunter, Emoni, Paul, you guys have been the closest friends I have ever had and I have enjoyed every moment with you. Mr. Brown, Thanks for being there for me consistently through my career here. Thanks to the whole Brownlee Family for friendship and fun.

Thanks to my roommates. Martin, I have had hilarious and sometimes crazy times on Fleming this year. I can’t imagine a better roommate for my senior year. Mason, we had some of the most fun and random conversations as roommates, too numerous to even mention. You really helped me see past myself and care for others more. I am so glad to have been your roommate.

Hello Class of 2013!

If you are reading this you have just gotten your yearbook and are looking through everything quickly during study hall. You do realize that you have a class tomorrow right? Have you done your work for that class?

Alternatively we have just graduated and you, so saddened by the ending of our SAS career are pining over the pages of this book for remembrance. If this is the case you should know that you probably have better things to do. You’ve gotten into college and you have the whole summer open to you. Stop looking through the yearbook now! Go get a job or see a concert or whatever you kids do these days.

Lastly, if you are reading this and it has been many years since we were in Highschool together at SAS then the message is to you. You’ve stopped on this page and for some reason beyond me have continued reading beyond the messages for the younger versions of you. I knew that you (insert name here) would be reading this page at this exact moment and are now thinking of me just like when I read your page I will be thinking of you. There are only a few pieces of wisdom that I can impart to you now:

1) Someone is about to kill you... turn around now! Is he there? False alarm? Check again. If he was there hit him in the neck and go for the gun. Now take him to the police. Don’t worry, I’ll wait for you to get back.

2) Looks like the Mayans were wrong. 12/21/2012 was a lie.

3) Give me a call. I’m probably kinda bored and wouldn’t mind talking to an SAS friend.

4) Remember when I did that really embarrassing friend that I got all angry about because people laughed at? It’s now been enough time that you can laugh at that thing and it’s not mean.

5) To all of my freshmen on Fleming: The hardest thing a selfish person can do is to understand of depth of someone else, “You must be much older for you look to be standing on the ground.” (The Phantom Tollbooth- Norton Juster)

Moral of the story?

I’ve not just learned to take the derivative of functions and Latin roots and how to read and what an atom is. I’ve learned that “my life now, my whole life, regardless of all that may happen to me, every minute of it, is not only not meaningless, as it was before, but has the unquestionable meaning of the good which it is in my power to put in it!” (Anna Karenina-Leo Tolstoy).

-Charles Martin French
I have always loved you and when you love someone, you love the whole person as he or she not as you would like them to be – Leo Tolstoy

St. Andrew’s I thank you for all you have generously given me. Over the past four years you have challenged me, pushed me, comforted me and ultimately made me a better person. Thank you St. Andrew’s.

If you’re reading this we survived the Mayan apocalypse. I would like to say thank you to the entire class of 2013, Mr. Crimmins for always being a calming voice of reason and of guidance. Thank you Mr. Roach for teaching me how to live with out ever telling me how to live. Mr. Brown for teaching me how to find arête and kleos in life. Mr. Gilhaney for sitting by my side in A.I. DuPont hospital. Ms. O’Shea for helping me live a less crazy life, the freshmen on campus thank you for filling my life with laughter this year. Remember you are never too old for a bedtime story. Thank you to everyone of my teachers, coaches and friends. Finally thank you Mom Dad and Louise for being my support group through these years and making these incredible 4 years possible.

A mistake is only a failure if you are too stubborn to learn from it. In all cases a mistake is a chance to learn, never be too proud to see that.

Rev. DeSalvo: You went above and beyond the role of an advisor, and I’ll always keep in touch. Mrs. Schuller: Thank you for all of your enthusiastic help in the college process. XC and Mr. O’Connell: Thank you for the opportunity to discover a life-long passion. Mr. Porter: I owe the progress I’ve made as a writer, coxswain, and rower to you. Carpenter: On behalf of the team, your unwavering presence on that mat over the years is a constant reminder of whom we’re fighting for. Voorhees: I couldn’t have gotten a better group of kids. Sterling: “Washington, Washington, 12 stories tall made of radiation.” Eric: I’m sorry I ate your sandwich. Nnana and Emilio: The Quadrat Party lives on. Charlie: I hope to have more Vortex adventures in the future. Mason: It took me too long to appreciate your humor and mannerisms. Eliza: Your looks of apathy in Orchestra always made me laugh. Danny, Charlie, Colin: You guys know what’s expected of you, we’ll be checking up on you next winter. Phil: You saved the day not only when you found my phone but when you took over the wrestling team. Pep: Finding the Vault in elevator shafts or swimming to SATs in Vietnam; our adventures are etched in the trees. Will: I’m sorry that your word wasn’t enough, and that not even time will dwindle the shame I carry. Tapasya: You are the most interesting person I will ever know, so please don’t waste your life doing something boring. Zack: You have saved me from a countless number of bad decisions, and I couldn’t have had a better roommate. Espen: Without that awkward van ride, you would’ve never turned out to be the most loyal and trustworthy friend I’ll ever have. Christian: I’ve pestered you until 2am with the problems of my life, and as the years go on the pesterin will not cease. Paul: I aspire to hold your NERG attitude. Abigail: Thanks for always looking out for me. Jessica: My respect for you holds no bounds. Z: I’m glad we came to our senses. Freshman year: Celeste: Stop staring at me. Ms. Hyde: Thank you for the support you’ve provided on SAC and to the Class of 2013. Mr. Greersbach: You believed in me more than I believed in myself, and I thank you for that. Mr. Cummings: Although we started the year off on a bad note, I still have the utmost respect for you. Findlay and Sarah: It’s always great to come home and see you guys. Dad: Thank you for your continuous motivation throughout these four years. Mom: Despite all the arguments along the way, I wouldn’t have gotten through the college process without you.

Pa: I’m proud to be the second alum in the family, and I hope to continue the tradition.

I am going to keep this short. I don’t have enough room on here for all the people that helped me to where I am now. I don’t have enough room to put a picture of everyone that matters to me. I am going to miss this place so much and I’ll never forget it. Shoutouts to my roommate and all the guys who are in my room for service, my little brothers and my little sisters, all the boys on dorm, kendo club, my actual little sister, my friends who graduated and I miss so much, all my past and present friends, anyone who’s shoulder I have cried on or has given me a hug, my teachers, my parents, my advisors, all the people who take care of this place that I love so much and lastly you, if your reading all the way to the end, thank you, and thanks for being there for me in any way you have been.
Shout out to all the all people and things that made SAS worth while-Jack, Andy, Jp, Nick, Eric, James, Yursha, Charlie, Aggy, Lillie, Abigail, Isabelle, Petey cubed, Rowing, 4:20 a.m. club, past Seniors and boats, Xbox, movies, coaches, Everhart, and My Parents. Thank you all.

"Tapasya", the heart of our family. We relive treasured memories of you; Your first smile, your first pout, Your first toddling steps, Your first Christmas, your first bike, Your first horseback ride, Your first naughty prank, and your first day at school.

You have come a long way....... From pretend body-building, to being a wrestler, From scribbling and doodling, to being an artist, From playing with dolls, to being an idolized Big Sister.

WOW !!! We are very proud of you !!!

Congratulations on all your ACHIEVEMENTS !!!
We wish you everlasting Happiness, Joy and Success. Hugs and Kisses.

Emoni, we gave you wings to fly and fly you will! Thank you for working so hard, for being steadfast true to your convictions. It has been a pleasure and a great source of pride watching you grow into the fine young woman you have become. Keep on doing you, keep on taking risks, trusting your level head, and following your passionate heart. We love you and will miss you. Fly young lady fly.

Love, your family.
Dear Mag,

May the raindrops fall lightly on your brow.
May the soft winds freshen your spirit.
May the sunshine brighten your heart.
May the burdens of the day rest lightly upon you.
And may God enfold you in the mantle of His love...

Our son and beloved brother Jonathan,

Today, years of nights past midnight, sacrifices, dedication, and hard work, are all being paid off. There are still many more years to achieve, but today you can afford to celebrate YOU. You continue to make us all proud from the minute you took your first step, swam your first lap, and now a high school graduate. We are all confident that you will continue to succeed in all your future endeavors. A motivated, determined, at times stubborn individual you are. But we love you nonetheless! Congratulations on your graduation! We knew you could do it.

Love,

Your family

Editors’ Note…

Dear Devoted Reader,
Congratulations on reaching the end of the 2013 Griffin. This labor of our love (and we do mean labor) is one of our greatest accomplishments in our time at St. Andrew’s School. A lot of tears (Emily), head traumas (Eliza), inappropriate laughter (Alexandra), and pseudo exercises (Martin) fostered the creative energy that allowed us to finish this book (in the wee hours of the night, might we add). If you ever find yourself looking for something to steady a coffee table or use as a paper weight, we hope you might end up flipping through this yearbook. If you smile once while reading, we have done our jobs and our seven months of work have just become worth while.

Thank you to Ms. O’Shea, without whom the yearbook would cease to exist; your yearbook wizardry is the reason this book is finally complete. Thank you to our Yearbook staff and sorry if Emily ever made you fear for your life…

Cheers, farewell, and enjoy,
Emily, Martin, Alexandra, Eliza

(and the soon to be Yearbook masters…)
Charlie, Eunice, Eliza, and Bella.
